FOREWORD

The object of this Book is to portray all the principle events which have appeared in Malone High School. They are merely the echoes of the happenings and the progress we've made being repeated by our fellow students, most worthy Principal, and teachers.

We can look out into life with hearts full of thankfulness to M. H. S. who has filled us with her bounteous gifts of love, learning and integrity.

DEDICATION

To our distinguished Principal and sincere Friend,
D. R. Allen.

Whose sterling qualities of character, commingled with profound learning have won for him wide-spread fame; who in all sincerity commands the esteem of the school at large, and whom it is hoped will be permitted to dwell long among us.

IS THIS VOLUME AFFECTIONATELY DEDICATED BY THE TIGER STAFF AND
THE SENIORS OF MALONE HIGH SCHOOL.

CHRISTINE BOONE

A friend tried and true—one of the few people who says little and means much.

LEE ROY FERGUSON

"All great men are dying," Lee Roy says, "I'm not feeling so well myself". He's earnest in whatever he undertakes to do. Liked by all and a friend to everyone.

PHOEBE EDDINS

A sweet disposition, a gentle nature, along with a graceful manner makes Phoebe a friend indeed.

WILLIAM EDWARDS

A man's man and a lady's man.

GLADYS MEARS

Gladys is seldom without a sunny smile. She's well mannered, modest, and isn't one who says I can't.

ANNIE LEE WILLIAMS

Peaceful, thoughtful, always modest, sweet and kind. Her ambitions will lead her onward.

COYE HELMS

Coupled with wit, we find talent, personality and an ability to make friends.

EVELYN ETHEREDGE

Attempt worthwhile things — accomplish worthwhile things. Always making her time count in wholesome, worthwhile accomplishments.

JAMES STEPHENS

The pertest little ape — that ever affronted human shape. He's filled each minute with sixty seconds worth of distance run.

LILLIE MARTIN

Lillie possesses a charming personality, she's loved by all—Always kind—A girl of her type is hard to find.

JAMES FRICK

James is true-blue, and one of those persons we can really depend upon.

BONNIE ARNOLD

A good house-keeper. A good prospective nurse. A good chemistry student. The girl who had the spunk to come back.

TENNYSON MATTHEWS

Always Jolly, well mannered, and a friend to everyone.

EARL ANDERSON

A good student, well mannered and an attractive personality, and a good sport with all.

GLADYS McKNIGHT

Gladys possesses that excellent grace desired by women and her winning ways will secure her happiness in life.

"Honor lies in honest toil". She has a pleasing personality, modest, always ready to do her part and is liked by everyone.

GLADYS MUMFORD

The esteem Gladys has won in High School, proves her ability to succeed anywhere.

JAMES GRANGER

Old Malone continues to defend her reputation by producing good men.

A VALEDICTORY

"Not the End, But the Commencement"

Dear Friends, Teachers, and Classmates:—We, who stand tonight at the meeting between a happy past and an unknown future, have reached not the end, but the Commencement of our lives. And what those lives are to be depends in a large measure upon the foundations we have been building for them in our High School years. This is a big thought, and I want you to think with me just how big it is. For tonight, I am fired with the zeal of a Class Patriotism that I would like to be able to transmit to you with all of its wonderful thrilling force.

It seems well for us, who are about to step forth into the world, to consider something of what our parts in the great battle of life are, or ought to be, as citizens of the grandest nation in all the world, and representing before its people the best school of all that cover the land from ocean to ocean. It only remains for each of us to decide within ourselves what we most earnestly desire to get out of life, and then reasonably and deliberately to sit down and count out the cost.

The voyage of life is through many deep and unknown channels, with many windings and turnings that often make it hard for us to tell just what we have passed by, and what we are yet to meet. It seems a long course to follow, as we row through the waters, and we are often tempted to let our bark drift to and fro, but as we rest upon our oars and look back, how very short a distance we seem to have come, after all, and how close the banks appear to be!

It is pleasant to pause here at the bending of the stream, and consider for a little the calmness of the wave ripples through which we have so easily been rowing; but we cannot linger long, for already the noise of life's larger waters is calling us, and we know that we must row ahead out of the peaceful, shallow current of our young life, where we have been able to drift through so much of our passage, and pull hard through the deeper channels against the stream of active life.

Dear Parents, Guardians, and Friends, we cannot pass forever out of this quiet channel into deeper waters awaiting us, without thanking you from the bottom of our hearts for the privilege of beginning this voyage of life on the breast of so clear and calm a stream. For these happy years our bark has glided so smoothly along between the banks that we could reach over and gather the lilies, through which we were guided, and were scarcely conscious of our own efforts in propelling our little craft up the stream. Our teachers have carefully sheltered us from every adverse wind of thought, and have warned us with the most zealous pains of the evil rocks and shoals or tangles of seaweed so sure to be met with in the broader channels of our onward course. We realize that if you had made this possible for us our start on the voyage of life might have been saddened by many disasters and retarded by many a barrier that might threaten to wreck our vessels, even at the very beginning of our voyage; and we want you to know how we appreciate your loving thoughtfulness before we tonight, sail onward through the deeper channels to the sea of the larger life awaiting us.

To you dear teachers, we must also express our earnest thanks. Often in the days to come when we are thrown more and more upon our own guidance and intuition, minds will travel back to you and we will see how many times you have helped to steer our frail bark around this or that difficulty, till we shall long, I am sure, to return to the shelter and protection of your piloting. But you have given us both our chart and compass, and as our boat glides out of the waters where you have been its guide so long, and your eyes, as I know they must, follow us on into the deeper channels ahead, may you ever see our blue and gold as signals of promise and grateful resolutions from the class that must never be afraid to show its colors, as we push on to perform our mission in a splendid sea of a bigger opportunity.

And thus, dear classmates we linger at the bend of the stream—the end of our course. We have paddled together through the school-waves behind us, but each must row forth alone into the deeper channels to come, wherever, and into whatever they may lead. Let us as the billows of life force us apart, keep our blue and gold, with all they signify to each one of us, ever flying at the mast-head, and face every duty of the unknown waters bravely and boldly, the principles of Honor ever turning the pilot wheel, as we sail on to the success no graduate of this dear school can ever fail to win.

Now our boat glides out between
The rocks that guard the shore
Bearing the Class of 1932
To be a class no more;
But looking forward with a smile
Of courage strong and high
To meet in that glad Afterwhile.

Onward through deep channels
May we ever hold
Waving from all panels
Our bright blue and gold,
May we keep them floating,
On each breeze so high,
True ideals denoting
As we say, "Good-Bye".

By, GLADYS MUMFORD.

SALUTATORY

Dear Parents, Friends and Teachers:

We wonder if you can realize just how proud we are of this privilege of appearing before you tonight and bidding you welcome to the ceremonies in which we are able to participate.

How many, many times in life we are forced to admit the inadequacy of mere words to express the deepest sentiments of the soul. Our hearts are filled with emotion! And we learn when our tongues falter and our lips refuse to say what we wish them to, something of what Tennyson had in his heart when he wrote:

"I would that my tongue could utter,
The thoughts that arise in me."

Dear friends, this occasion is one of those times. Did you ever stop to think how much may lie underneath the surface of this word I have chosen to speak to you: "Welcome", the word that endeavors to assure you that you have well come. All the high sounding phrases lofty sentiments cannot express more fully than this simple greeting to our friends.

"We hope you are WELL,

We see you are COME,

And we know you are WELCOME."

So often in the daily goings and comings of life, we hear the word spoken with such an empty, hollow, sound. A word is only a word when it lacks ring of sincerity—but, oh! the meaning when it comes from the depth of the heart. The voice could never convey to you all that the heart would say. And there are many other ways in which it expresses itself to those who can understand, even better than the words try in our weak way to speak. So I feel that you must already have felt your welcome, without any of our assurances. You must have seen it in our eager eyes and joyous smiles. You could almost read our minds.

To you, this occasion may be indeed a pleasant occasion, for we shall certainly do our best to make it so! but at its best, it will be only one of many, many such occasions in your life, which, enjoyable as they all may be at times, will be best fleeting in their influences. But to us, it is a great occasion, a red letter day, one of the brightest spots in all our lives, and bound to live forever in our memories.

To our parents and relatives, it is an hour of pride and affections; to our teachers, an hour of mingled joy in our success, and regret we trust, over the necessary parting.

For us, this occasion is chosen an epoch in our lives—the most important periods we have yet known, and one of the utmost value in its bearing upon all of our future career. As we look back over the past we feel that we can truthfully say that we have done our best at all times and in all places to make the most of every opportunity so far as our young minds were capable to understand it. We mean to continue to do that same, best, all the times and in all the places where fate may hereafter direct us.

We ask you then, dear friends, to be glad with us, as we enter upon the program of the hour, we are sure that we are all most earnest in assuring you of our joy at having you with us, and that I am most sincere in telling you, in the names of my classmates, how truly glad we are that you are here. We hope that you may all feel that it has been good to be with us today and may see in all that we do the assurance of your welcome, even while we realize that as a class, we cannot well ask you to "come again".

My first, I hope you are;

My second, I see you are;

My whole I know you are

"WELCOME!"

By JAMES FRICK.

CLASS HISTORY

Since Malone High School does not offer any course in modern history, I am offering a short sketch of our four years which is really modern.

First, twenty-four students composed the freshman class of 1929, with Mrs. F. N. Whigham as sponsor. Many of these came in from other schools near here. These, together with the eighth grade graduates of the year before, formed a lively freshman group.

We met with much success in both the Literary and Athletic fields because we lived up to our motto, "B's". With Earl Anderson as president, Gladys McKnight as vice-president, and Lee Roy Ferguson holding the money, our freshmen class launched on a voyage for May 6, 1932.

After summer vacation most of us came back to school and brought a few extra students with us. Two more buses were added that year and then our number of sophomores was increased to twenty-eight. Mr. F. N. Whigham, our sponsor, and Coy Helms, president of the class, helped save the day for us and we were even able to add to our freshmen reputation. We won a "Book Contest", a "Room Contest", and a "Booth Contest" in our community fair. Our class had found out what it took to win so we put forth an effort and were profitted by doing so. Our motto was "Climb, Though The Rocks Be Rugged." Earl Anderson was vice-president and Gladys McKnight was Sec't-Treasurer in our sophomore year.

Up until this time we were being kept up with by the same group of teachers. They were: Mr. D. R. Allen, principal; Mr. F. N. Whigham, assistant principal; Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Whigham. Also Mr. G. C. Norman had been here with us for a year since Mr. Rex Toole left at the end of our freshman year. But in our Junior year, we lost Mr. and Mrs.

Whigham who went to Marianna to teach there. So we were facing three new teachers to begin with in our Junior year. They were: Mr. H. D. Hagler, Miss Diden and Miss Roberson (she has changed her name since then to Mrs. Snipes).

There were twenty-five juniors on roll in 1930-31 and were really a jolly bunch. Earl Anderson was president, Coy Helms, vice-president, and Angus Bevis, secretary-treasurer. That year we had as our motto, "Not To The Top, But Climbing," and we were. We won another "Book Contest", too. About this time a matrimonial epidemic broke out in M. H. S and one of our classmates caught it. Estelle Holland got married.

Then came the most important year in High School, our Senior year. Mr. Hagler was our sponsor; Bill Edwards, our president; Coy Helms, our vice-president, and Angus Bevis, secretary-treasurer. We have many things to remember this year by, because it has always been our purpose to live up to our former mottos as well as this one—"Tonight We Launch, Where Shall We anchor?"

The boys of our class all through high school have made up a large part of the Basket Ball teams throughout the four years we have been in school. They have had much success, and this year, for the first time, Marianna won a cup over Malone. I'm sure no class has enjoyed ball games, picnics and chicken fries as much as this class.

Judging from our past, some of us have a bright future planned, some are looking forward to college; others are looking forward to starting in some type of business; and a few are even looking forward to June.

Historian, ANGUS BEVIS.

CLASS PROPHECY

I was weary of the toil of Graduation week, and wished to seek a quiet haven where I could have perfect rest, and recuperate before entering upon the actual duties of life, for which my school course had prepared me. I took the train and was swiftly carried away from the scene of my youth. After riding for a few days, I found myself on a sandy shore. I walked down the shore and behold! I found myself entering a dark forest and here I thought I would have a quiet rest, so I sat down and lo! I heard footsteps, then a voice saying, "I am the Spirit of Prophecy, I have come to reveal the future to you of the Senior class of Malone High School for 1931-32".

I found myself softly drifting. I drifted into a beautiful garden and before my eyes was a large building. I decided to enter, as I stepped into the door I was greeted by a tall quiet looking man carrying a medicine case. As I took a second look, who should it be but one of my old classmates, Rudolph Howard. "Hello, Rudolph, I have not seen you since Graduation, ten years ago, at ole' M. H. S." "I have been so busy with my hospital work, until I have not had time for any social activities. By the way, I have seen only one of our Classmates since Graduation, Clara Mae, who is Head Nurse here in my hospital. If you would like to see her just step right into this room", and there before my eyes stood Clara Mae. "Hello, Lillie, I was not expecting such a sudden thing to happen. Why I haven't seen you since Graduation. Where have you been? I seem to have been sleeping for the years that have past. Things since then seem to be blotted in my mind".

"Oh, I am off duty tonight, let's go to the movies to see James Granger and Tennyson Matthews Play."

"I would simply be delighted to go, but I must be on my way. I'm leaving for Washington, D. C. about noon".

For several hours I rode upon this train, again finding myself in Washington, at a strange place, this time, I was ringing the doorbell at the White House, and who should meet me but Annie Lee with her usual smile. "Hello, Lillie, come in, seems ages since 1932, but it has only been ten years, and by the way, I am governess for President and Mrs. Earl Anderson, in whose house you now stand. Who would have thought it? They have two darling children, and Mr. Anderson is such a good President. I have nothing to do at this time, since the children are away. Let's go in and call up a few of our old Classmates."

"Good, it will be fine to have a good old chat with them. Let's call Ethel. "Hello, Ethel."

"Who's there?"

"Lillie Martin."

"Sorry, Lillie, I could not hear the first time, the children were making such a noise. I guess you understand I am Mrs. Sidney Hall and have been ever since Graduation".

"How many children have you?" I asked. Seven was the reply, and then she added, "you remember Carolyn Whisnant? She is a newspaper reporter of this city. James Stephens' book on 'How to Gain' is quiet famous, and I am sure you would like to hear what some of our other Classmates are doing. As I glanced over the paper a few days ago I saw a list of names added to the World's Champions, and it read as follows: Louie Ford, Basket Ball, and Christine Boone, Art; and just below I read of Lee Roy's flight to the moon. I also saw where James Fricke was a well known Evangelist of today, and where Angus Bevis sings for James' Revivals."

Our next call was answered promptly. "This is lawyer's office."

"Hello, Lawyer," I said, "You used to be Coye Helms".

"Yes and did you know Evelyn Etheredge is my stenographer and Bill Edwards is my best debator? I saw Gladys Mumford a few days ago, and she said she guessed she would always live in Grangerburg and teach school." As Coye was very busy we rang off.

Then I stood in a splendid reception room of a grand beauty parlor and in walked Pheobe Eddins. "Hello, I am so glad to see you. Come, have supper with me. I am leaving the shop for the girls to close." Then I began telling of my interview with my other Classmates, "and where is Gladys Mears?" I asked.

"Oh, she is in Paris as a dress modeler for a Department Store there."

At its conclusion the Spirit of Prophecy rolled down the curtains and the future was forever closed to me. I took the future forever and took the train back to dear old M. H. S., and now I am ready to commence the battle of life.

"What It Takes To Win A Game"

Luck, skill, strength, strategy, and good sportsmanship.

Basket Ball is a sport that requires most strength, skill, and luck. It is one of the fastest of all sports, but is not so strenuous as many have believed.

M. H. S. Ball team has met with remarkable success during term. They have exercised all the above factors well and have been rewarded by winning at least two cups each year.

Statistics revealed in an interesting ball game:

1. There are a total of 108 interruptions in the average Ball Game.
2. The actual playing time of an entire game is 29 minutes, 30 seconds.
3. The longest playing periods without stops average 2 minutes, 22 seconds.
4. The shortest playing period without a stop is one second.
5. There are nineteen jump balls in the average game.

6. There are twenty-two fouls in the average game.
7. There are thirty-one center jumps in the average game.
8. The average number of free throws is 14.
9. The average number of out-of-bounds is 38.
10. Eighteen Baskets is an average number score.

JOKES

"Parse Me a Couple Please"

Mr. Allen—What is the grammatical construction of a kiss?

Mr. Hagler—Quoting from the Senior's viewpoint, they say:

A kiss is a pronoun because SHE stands for it;
It is masculine and feminine, therefore, common.
It is plural because one calls for another;
It is singular because there is nothing else like it;
Usually, it is in apposition with a caress;
At any rate, it is sure to follow;
It can be conjugated, but never declined;
However, it is not an adverb because it cannot be compared, but it is a phrase expressing feeling.

Earl—Can you operate a typewriter?

Coy—Yes, I use the biblical system.

Earl—I never heard of that.

Coy—"Seek and ye shall find."

Mr. Allen—Hello Central, I want to talk to my wife.

Central—Number, please?

Mr. Allen—Say, you don't think I'm a bigamist?

Bill says:

A woman's place is in a roadster, a department store, the limelight, court, a dark corner, the delicatessen, lingerie, ads and tears. He also gives a health hint for flappers—"Eat onions if you want to keep chaps off your lips."

Gladys McKnight—Heard you were sick.

Angus—Yeah! I had chimney disease.

Gladys—Chimney disease? What's that?

Angus—Flu.

Joe Williams—Hello, how are you? I just had a plate of ox-tail soup and feel bully.

Malcolm—That's nothing I just had a plate of hash and I feel like everything.

Clinton—And is $10 all you are offering for the return of your wife? My, no one will bring her back for that small amount.

Mr. Hagler—Don't I know it.

Austine—And did you really miss me all the summer?

Maurice—Did I? Every time I kissed another girl, I wished it were you.

Hazel Anderson—Why don't you like girls?

Leroy—They're too biased.

Hazel—Biased?

Leroy—Yes, bias this, and bias that, until I'm broke.

It has been told that Austine will soon be wearing a diamond.

Bill—After my death the world will know what I have done.

Mr. Roy Beall—Oh, well; you don't have to worry. You'll be out of danger.

Mr. Williams—That young man who called on you last night should be on an exhibition at a circus side show.

Annie Lee—Why, father, what do you mean?

Mr. Williams—As I passed through the hall I noticed he had two heads on his shoulders.

"GOSSIP"

We're hearing a few faint cries from the seniors like this: "It won't be long now. I wish I were a Freshman."

Evelyn Etheredge—Oh, doctor, I'm so sick, if I could only die.

Dr. Kennedy—Lady, I'll do the very best I can.

We often hear this remark: "There is a senior that hasn't been spanked yet."

Who told that Evelyn Etheredge didn't want to be wise any more?

Louie Ford will probably be playing football on a college team soon.

We've been told that Leroy is very fond of chocklate candy.

This question is pondered over: Will Gladys McKnight and Bill ever make a trade about going to Chipley?

Can you imagine how the contest between Pheobe and Tennyson turn out?

Annie Lee, will or will not beat Jeanette's time?

There is a weird little story that Mr. Allen will have to get screens to put around heaters to keep some of the seniors from sitting on them when they are red hot.

Some say the reason Evelyn Etheredge is gaining weight is that she has changed her diet now and likes "apples" now.

Hazel Bevis is wondering if she'll ever get to help drive a school bus.

Ask James Granger does he like "Fruity" ice cream.

Just say "Red" in Christine's presence, and boy! how she will smile at you.

Christine and Evelyn wonders if they will ever be called "The Gold dust twins".

MALONE HIGH SCHOOL BAND

A band department has been organized in Malone School by Professor A. L. Murat.

A special course is being given in all string instruments under the supervision of Mr. Thomas Little. Mr. Little is at school four days out of each week, giving each pupil four lessons per week.

We are all proud to know that our school has this band and we feel sure that they will soon be able to entertain us with band concerts, etc.

Band practice will continue throughout the summer, so we feel sure that ours will be one of the best throughout the country, due to the fact that our pupils are all musically talented so therefore we can look for the best results.

POPULARITY AND PUBLICITY

Folks are often criticized for their vain pride of their general esteem. If they are popular they make themselves unpopular by talking about it. They think that their opinion of themselves reigns throughout the community. Something about nature causes one's opinion of himself to always be exaggerated for the better. Somehow he always thinks he exactly fits in whatever he starts to do. But there is a vast difference in your opinion and that of the general public. Too often the case is, "You're Magnificent", just grand in appearance, and not popular. By this, I mean just grand in the outward show, for the time being because it doesn't last.

We know that fame is vapor, and popularity is an accident, so why should one feel so big when he has accomplished some desired end?

Of course he has some proper and desirable self-respect; also pride of his achievement, but he should not be the least conscious that his success has been due to any greatness on his part.

So folks, remember fame is vapor, popularity is an accident, and all of it is mostly BUNK.

By HAZEL BEVIS.

FRESHMEN

F is for Freshmen, so jolly and so gay, onward to school as we go every day.
R is for right which you would always do,
Then you know you will ever be true.
E is for good English we all must use,
and if we do not, the world will abuse.
S is for Sophomores, a gay young class,
we will be next, if it is agreeable we pass.
H is for honest, if we wish to be, grand ole'
Seniors it takes honesty you see.
M is for our motto to which we should stick,
"Little By Little Does the Trick".
E is for excellent; we have all the rest,
Let's press forward and do our best.
N is for naughty, some boys and girls are,
But we remember what we are here for.

S is for study, if our lessons we get,
Also for Seniors we hope to be yet.
By VIRGIL OSWALD.

A PATRIOTIC EVENT

The entire school enjoyed a program on February 22 in honor of George Washington. This was the second Centennial Anniversary of the American hero and the school board provided a place for a memorial program in his honor. In fact this was the day for a Washington program all over the United States, the territory over which he holds the honor of being the first President. Few of us witnessed this occasion one hundred years ago, but we must say this was an event enjoyed by everyone in school. Plans were made by the Faculty for this program to be to High School and Grammar Grades alike, and to make it the very best for the occasion.

Mr. Norman and the Agriculture Boys placed trees on the campus to be set out in honor of Washington.

There was a two-fold benefit from this; first, to make the program complete and appropriate; second, to beautify the school grounds with a lasting effect.

Each grade had the pleasure of setting a tree which bore the name of the class it represented. After the trees were placed in their respective places, the entire student body assembled around the tree which stands on the northeast corner of the campus, and dedicated it to Washington. The spirit of the school was behind the activity too. May the tree stand as a hero for the school as the man that crossed the frozen Delaware stood for his countrymen.

"America" was sung as soil was being placed around the tree that shall, perhaps in the future awake other mortal tongues.

Then Rev. Williams held the kind attention of the assembly as he plead for the blessings of God to abide with the occasion forever. "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" was sung and the boys finished folding mother earth about the tree. Church Bells, in the meantime were ringing coherently, carrying the glad but sympathetic message to all who did not witness the dedication.

Then Mr. Allen led the group in couples into the auditorium, where the program was continued with different phases of honor.

Malone School will long hold dear that day, although few of those that were present will witness the third centennial anniversary of the noble Washington. Still the memory of the occasion will whisper to the students of Malone Schools, one hundred years from that day and may that tree, that was given to the hero do the whisperings.

FOR YEAR 1931-32

The students of the Elementary grades are proud of the fact that we are a Standardized school this year.

Look out High School, we'll catch you yet.

I F

If all the Pussy-willows buds
Were everyone a cat,
And dogwood grew real Puppy-dogs
What would you think of that?
I'd teach the dogs to be polite
And how to play genteel
With all the darling Pussy-cats
If only they were real.

Selected by Third Grade

We feel that this has been of some benefit to all of us. We hope to continue.

INEZ DITTY.

PLANTS OF COOL TEMPERATE ZONE

It is known as a grain belt,
With grass as fine as felt.

With oats,
To feed the goats.
With rye,
That pigs will buy.

With wheat,
That all things eat.

With barley,
That you would hardly eat,

And with corn,
You ate ever since you were born.

The hogs eat no flax.

Hogs and cows live in the land of plains,
Where they can get plenty of grains.

EUGENE GARRETT, Grade 6.

THE CLOSE OF SCHOOL

It was the last of school. Everyone was happy except one little boy. He was rich and had not worked. When the reports were given out, this little boy had failed. As he was sad, he slipped out the door and ran home. He reached the gate and saw something that made him scream. Their money had been stolen from the front yard.

They started for the police and met him. He told them that the father had just been killed in a car wreck. The little boy now had to make a living for his poor invalid mother. His thoughts were then of his good times in school, which he had wasted when he should have been at work.

MORE THINGS

The object of this page is to acquaint you with a few "more things".

We are almost exhausted, due to the fact that we have worried so much in trying to get up material for this page, but we have come to the conclusion that these: "The Junior's Famous Features," "Laziness", and something about the Sophomores, would be most interesting to you.

We hope that some day we will be Famous Contributors to some magazine.

THE SOPHOMORES 1931-32

The Sophomores of 1931-32 are always ready to back any more the school makes. The P.T.A. gave a prize to the room that would get out and work, and make the most money for it. We were all willing to put forth an effort and win. When the money was handed in, we were the winners. We were also close in the book contest.

It seems that our room is very interested in athletics. Our Sponsor, Miss Diden is the Girls' Basket Ball Coach. The Sophomore girls that came out for basket ball were: Sarah Hatton, Frances Garrett, Oleta Bishop, Sallie Helen Edwards, and Ora Mae Herring. The boys were: John Homer Williams.

In the following years we are going to show "Ole' Malone Hi" what we can do for her.

By: FRANCES GARRETT.

A POEM OF LAZINESS

I wish I were a rock sitting on a hill,
Doing nothing all day long, but just sitting still
I wouldn't eat, wouldn't sleep, I wouldn't even wash.

I'd sit there a thousand years,
And rest myself, By Gosh!

Signed: Laziness of Malone High School

JUNIORS

We, the Juniors of Malone Hi have on roll twenty-five, as our names are called "Jolly Juniors". And on account of the jolly part Mr. Allen has had to call us down lots.

The Juniors presented a play which the money had to go on the Ole' Seniors, you know.

We were well represented on both the girls and boys basket ball teams. Of course the team would not have made the record they did if it had not been for the Juniors. C?

We have the school spirit and are always ready to do our part in anything—if you'll let us.

By: HAZEL ANDERSON.

AFTERTHOUGHT

I sincerely wish to thank all those who have cooperated in helping put this Annual over. I think that the Staff is with me when I say we have enjoyed working for it, we have done our best to help make it one of the best Annuals of Malone High School, and hope you all will say you enjoyed the work you have done towards it. Our school is large, but our spirit is greater, and we have strived for the best we know. So that's why we are putting out this Annual, and though it be worthless we hope it pleases you.

I am the Editor, in fact the Editor-in-Chief, From these write-ups I hope I won't come to grief.

It's hard as the devil to please them all, Now wouldn't it be unkind for any squall?

Editor-in-Chief, EVELYN ETHEREDGE.
